Winery Pawis – Saale-Unstrut

The estate, managed by Bernard Pawis, has grown significantly since its founding in 1990—from just 0.5 hectares up to 16 hectares of vineyards. Today, it is located within the historic setting of the former monastic estate of Klostergut Zscheiplitz.

As a member of the VDP (Association of German Prädikat Wine Estates), the winery regards sustainable practices as a key to its success. A conscious and respectful approach to nature forms the foundation of its philosophy, with soil and vine considered its most valuable assets. The goal is to reflect the “distinctive potential” of its homeland in every wine.

Winery Mehling – Pfalz

The winery Mehling in Deidesheim (Palatinate) follows a philosophy rooted in organic viticulture, artisanal precision, and the expression of individual terroir. Since 2014, the family-run estate has been managed by Kathrin Otte (née Mehling) and Christoph Knäbel.

The winery operates according to strict organic standards (DE-ÖKO-022). For the winemakers, the avoidance of synthetic substances is a fundamental prerequisite for creating an authentic natural product. Their aim is to craft “distinctive characters” — wines that resist standardization and clearly reflect the unique identity of their origin.

Winery Müller-Catoir – Pfalz

The philosophy of this winery from Neustadt-Haardt is defined by a harmonious balance of respect for nature, artisanal precision, and a conscious commitment to slowing down.

In the cellar, the focus is on minimal intervention. Following the principle of “leaving out the wrong thing at the right time,” the wines are allowed to develop their own character through slow fermentation and extended lees aging.

Since 2012, the estate has been farmed organically (certified since 2015). The absence of herbicides and insecticides, combined with meticulous handwork in the vineyard, forms the foundation of the exceptional quality of the grapes.

Winery Mosbacher – Pfalz

The philosophy of this winery in Forst, Palatinate, is centered on the pursuit of the highest quality in harmony with nature. Since joining the VDP in 1993, this commitment has been consistently upheld.

Since 2012, the vineyards have been cultivated according to certified organic farming standards (EU certified). The primary goals are to protect biodiversity and preserve the vitality of the soils.

In addition to its organic certification, the winery has been certified for sustainability by FairChoice since 2025.

In the cellar, great care is taken to preserve the natural character of the grapes, resulting in elegant wines with vibrant freshness, precise fruit, and a refined sense of balance.

Winery Blaul & Sohn – Pfalz

The philosophy of this family-owned winery in Gönnsheim, Palatinate, is deeply rooted in tradition and a spirit of togetherness. For thirteen generations, the family has been dedicated to winemaking, combining the diligence of the Palatinate with a genuine passion for life.

The focus is on crafting authentic Palatinate wines of outstanding quality—equally suited to festive occasions and relaxed everyday enjoyment.

The winery's guiding principle is that great wine takes time. In the historic oak barrel cellar, dating back to 1857, the wines are matured with patience, precision, and a gentle hands-on approach.

Winery Geheimer Rat Dr. von Bassermann-Jordan – Pfalz

The philosophy of this winery is founded on a unique combination of centuries-old tradition, pioneering innovation, and a deep respect for nature. Its aim is to craft exceptional wines that express the character of their terroirs—each one a true reflection of the living spirit of the Palatinate.

Since its founding in 1718, the estate has been regarded as a pioneer of quality winemaking. Today, this legacy is reflected in the harmonious combination of historical heritage and state-of-the-art cellar technology.

A cornerstone of the winery's philosophy is its commitment to organic viticulture. The estate is a member of ECOVIN and certified according to the FairChoice sustainability standards. Vineyard management focuses on organic plant protection, natural preparations, and the preservation of biodiversity.

Winery Dr. Loosen – Mosel

The philosophy of this winery is best expressed by its guiding principle: “Great wines are created in the mind.” Owner Ernst Loosen believes that a winemaker must have a clear vision of what a wine should express long before the first grapes are harvested.

Truly great wines are seen as the perfect interplay of soil, climate, and grape variety. The wine should be shaped in the vineyard, rather than through technical intervention in the cellar.

Loosen brings together two family traditions—the production of dry wines from his father's side and naturally sweet Prädikat wines from his mother's. The winery remains committed to classic winemaking methods, including fermentation with indigenous yeasts in old oak casks and extended lees aging.

Winery Chateau Meyney – Bordeaux, France

The philosophy of Château Meyney in Saint-Estèphe is defined by a harmonious balance between profound respect for its terroir and the pursuit of elegance, precision, and purity. One of the oldest estates in the Médoc, the château combines the timeless values of Bordeaux with a refined, modern approach to winemaking.

Work in the vineyard is guided by sustainable farming practices, adopted since 2005, with the aim of expressing the distinctive character of the estate's gravel and blue clay soils as faithfully as possible.

In the cellar, gentle extraction techniques are employed to preserve the fruit's natural freshness and aromatic complexity. The wines are matured for 16 to 24 months in French oak barrels, with the proportion of new oak—typically around 40–50%—carefully adapted to each vintage.

Unlike many of its neighbours in Saint-Estèphe, Château Meyney uses a comparatively high proportion of Petit Verdot, often up to 15%. This lends the wines additional spice, structure, and distinctive notes of leather and musk.
